

What Makes Altamira Your Competitive advantage?

Efficient evaluation of data and rapid identification of risks are key elements in evaluating any transaction and can be significant challenges when assessing a large volume of assets. Altamira's online Due Diligence Application allows clients to see in real-time the pace of site inspection completion as well as field inspection reports and related photos, allowing potential problem areas to be identified early and informing go / no-go decisions on the fly.

Our experts can seamlessly support your operational teams before or after a transaction, increasing the value of assets by bringing them into compliance and implementing risk management solutions.

Reinforced by a structured delivery model, Altamira's scalable, reliable, and repeatable methodologies and digital tools deliver solutions across your value chain.

Due Diligence and Asset Transaction Support

Altamira has a long history of supporting buyers, sellers, developers, and operators in mergers, acquisitions, divestitures, and internal asset valuations. We work in partnership with our clients to determine the key risks that affect their decisions and execute in an organized and timely manner to rapidly identify "deal-breaker" issues as well as potential solutions related to environmental conditions, pipeline integrity, asset integrity, and safety.

Extensive knowledge of state and federal requirements coupled with thorough research means that non-compliant conditions can be identified and quantified. In addition to completing regulatory reviews, our highly experienced team of field inspectors are available to conduct physical site inspections. Altamira's Due Diligence Application ensures consistency in data collection and provides real-time, geo-referenced status on field data collection progress.

Where needed, Altamira utilizes Decision Tree analysis and Monte Carlo simulation to quantify risks associated with a transaction. The ability to understand the range of potential outcomes, the probability of any single outcome, and the costs associated with known or suspected risks is Your Competitive Advantage in transactions.

Our mission at Altamira is to solve our clients' most complex regulatory, operational, and business challenges by being the first choice and trusted partner for strategy, consulting, and technical expertise combined with digital technology solutions.